If you read the papers and listen to the "experts," you've heard the usual pitches about retirement: you'll need a million dollars or more so you better start an RRSP early and maximize your contributions, trust the stock market and mutual funds for the best return, put your faith in a financial advisor. But what if this advice is wrong? By reading this book you will learn the truth about these myths. You will also be given six free spreadsheets to help you see where you really stand, including the latest "Retirement Optimizer" that allows you to calculate your retirement income year-by-year and the "Personal Rate of Return Calculator" so you can determine just how well your investments have done. Find out how much you'll really need to save. Smoke and Mirrors dispels the five main retirement myths: If I had $1,000,000 I could retire. Find out why you might be fine with much less. RRSPs are the holy grail of retirement.

Discover what is more important than the size of your RRSP. Don't worry about your investments; you'll be fine in the long run. Learn how to figure out the truth about how investments are really doing. Income taxes are the enemy. We're all interested in reducing taxes, but find out why tax shelters and donation schemes may be dangerous to your health. Buy permanent life insurance to secure your financial future. Find out who needs insurance, who doesn't and how to get it cheap. This book gathers selected and expanded contributions presented at the 5th Symposium on Space Optical Instruments and Applications which was held in Beijing, China, on September 5-7, 2018. This conference series is organized by the Sino-Holland Space Optical Instruments Laboratory, a cooperative platform between China and the Netherlands. The symposium focused on key technological problems regarding optical instruments and their applications in a space context. It covered the latest developments, experiments and results on the theory, instrumentation and applications of space optical instruments. The book is split into five main sections: The first covers optical remote sensing system design, the second focuses on advanced optical system design, and the third addresses remote sensing calibration and measurement. Remote sensing data processing and information extraction are then presented, followed by a final section on remote sensing data applications. Drawing on current trends in post-modernism and post-humanism this book offers a challenge to traditional ways of thinking, theorising and talking about animals and human-animal relations. International Progress in Precision Engineering documents the proceedings of the 7th International Precision Engineering Seminar held in Kobe, Japan, May 1993. The seminar brought together the leading precision engineering practitioners from areas of application as diverse as sensors, actuators, scanning tip microscopy, micro and nano machining (including bio-machining), precision measuring machines, machine tools, and large optics for space technology. The seminar included 10 oral sessions that dealt with the following topics: (I) Metrology - Science Base For Precision Engineering; (II) Sensors and Actuators in Precision Engineering and Nanotechnology; (III) New Materials - Applications and Ultra-Precision Energy Beam Processing; (IV) Nanotechnology Machining Processes; (V) New Developments In Ultra-Precision Machines; (VI) Ultra-Precision, Servo, and Control Technology; (VII) Precision Engineering in Space Technology; (VIII) X-Ray Technologies and Their Applications; (IX) Micromechanics and Micrometrology; and (X) New Developments in Precision Engineering. There were also poster sessions and an introductory keynote speech by Dr. H. Mizuno, Executive Vice-President of Matsushita/Panasonic, who talks on the symbiotic relationship between electronics and precision engineering. Journalists believe that they mirror the world. However, this book argues that journalism moves the world. But, in which direction are we moving it? This book introduces the innovation of journalism through behavioral science, positive psychology, moral psychology and prospective psychology. Steve Jobs of Apple said that it's the intersection of technology and liberal arts that makes our hearts sing. This book proposes that today's journalism can be improved by drawing ideas, new formats and methodologies from the intersection of journalism and behavioural sciences like positive psychology. You'll discover: - How to create engaging journalistic coverage that you stop seeing the world through a victimizing lens. - How to win the World Press Photo by taking photographs that portrays hope and meaning amidst war and chaos. - How loyal media customers by engaging and interacting with them. - How to boost interest and engagement by understanding the deep seated psychology underpinning every journalist. In the book you will learn from the Dutch media sensation De Correspondent, South African Times Media Group, Huffington Post, The Guardian, Upworthy, New York Times contributor, World Press Photo winner and Scandinavian Broadcasters. This book for media professionals but also for anyone interested in positive psychology and in societal improvement by news coverage. In this book, the first of a series, Robin D. Gill, author of the highly acclaimed Ye Sea Slugs! and Cherry Blossom Epiphany, the largest single-theme anthologies of poetry ever published, explores the traditional Japanese New Year through 2,000 translated haiku (mostly 17-20c). "The New Year," R.H. Blyth once wrote, "is a season by itself." That was nowhere so plain as in the world of haiku, where saijiki, large collections called of ku illustrating hundreds, if not thousands of briefly explained seasonal themes, generally come in five volumes, one for each season. Yet, the great doyen of haiku gave this fifth season considered the first season when it came at the head of the Spring rather than in mid-winter only a tenth of the pages he gave to each of the other four seasons (20 vs. 200). Was Blyth an enthusiast, not enamored with ritual? Or, was he loath to translate the New Year with its cultural idiosyncrasies (most common to the Sinosphere but not to the West), because he did not want to have to explain the haiku? It is hard to say, but, with these poems for the rest of the world, Robin D. Gill, aka "keigu" (respect foolishness, or respect-fool), rushes in where Blyth feared to tread to give this supernatural or cosmological season - one that combines aspects of the Solstice, Christmas, New Year's, Easter, July 4th and the Once Upon a Time Fairy Tales - the attention it deserves. With G.K. Chesterton's words, evoking the mind of the haiku poets of old, the author-publisher leaves further description of the content to his reviewers. "The man standing in his own kitchen-garden with the fairyland opening at his feet is the man with large ideas. His mind creates distance; the motor-car stupidly destroys it." (Chesterton: Heretics 1905) Containing original essays; historical narratives, biographic sketches, memoirs, sketches of society, topographical descriptions, novels and tales, anecdotes, extracts from new and expensive works, the spirit of the public journals, discoveries in art and sciences, useful domestic hints, etc. etc. etc. compiled and written by the Federal Project of the Work Projects Administration for the state of Florida ... sponsored by the Florida Department of Public Instruction. Includes section: "Some Michigan books."
