Enological Chemistry is written for the professional enologist tasked with finding the right balance of compounds to create or improve wine products. Related titles lack the appropriate focus for this audience, according to reviewers, failing either to be as comprehensive on the topic of chemistry, to include chemistry as part of the broader science of wine, or targeting a less scientific audience and including social and historical information not directly pertinent to the understanding of the role of chemistry in successful wine production. The topics in the book have been sequenced identically with the steps of the winemaking process. Thus, the book describes the most salient compounds involved in each vinification process, their properties and their balance; also, theoretical knowledge is matched with its practical application. The primary aim is to enable the reader to identify the specific compounds behind enological properties and processes, their chemical balance and their influence on the analytical and sensory quality of wine, as well as the physical, chemical and microbiological factors that affect their evolution during the winemaking process. Organized according to the winemaking process, guiding reader clearly to application of knowledge Describes the most salient compounds involved in each step enabling readers to identify the specific compounds behind properties and processes and effectively work with them Provides both theoretical knowledge and practical application providing a strong starting point for further research and development • Chapter wise & Topic wise presentation for ease of learning • Quick Review for in depth study • Mind maps to unlock the imagination and come up with new ideas • Know the links R & D based links to empower the students with the latest information on the given topic • Tips & Tricks useful guideline for attempting questions in minimum time without any mistake The new Savvas Chemistry program combines our proven content with cutting-edge digital support to help students connect chemistry to their daily lives. Glycosylation of small lipophilic molecules is a ubiquitous process in plants that produces many important compounds. Many of these are secondary metabolites with key roles in plant abiotic and biotic stress tolerance through such processes as free radical scavenging and antimicrobial and antiherbivore defense. Most of these plant products occur as O-glycosides, with a much smaller number occurring as glucose esters of aromatic acids, and even fewer occurring as glucose esters of aliphatic acids. For example, there is a large diversity and distribution of monoterpene glycosides in plants, but relatively few monoterpene acid glucose esters have been elucidated to date. There have, however, been increasing reports of the latter esters in recent years, particularly those based on the isomers menthiafolic acid and oleuropeic acid. Although menthiafolic acid is acyclic and oleuropeic acid cyclic, the acids share similarities such as the presence of an α,β -unsaturated carbonyl group. Moreover, both monoterpene acids can occur as monoesters or diesters of glucose, or more commonly as monoesters of glucose with shared O-linked phenolic moieties such as gallic acid, noreugenin, chromenone, quercetin, or kaempferol. The combination of the α,β -unsaturated carbonyl group in both the monoterpene acid and phenolic moieties, together with the phenolic hydroxyls, gives the compounds particular biological activities with potential commercial applications. In particular, the presence of these functional groups produces a number of important therapeutic properties such as tumor inhibition, carcinogenesis suppression, and antioxidant and antiinflammatory activities. In this chapter, we review all of the glucose esters containing these monoterpenoids identified to date and describe their biological activities and commercial potential as therapeutics. We also discuss how such properties may relate to functional roles in plants such as biotic and abiotic stress responses. Finally, we collate the limited information available on their biosynthesis. 1. This book deals with CBSE New Pattern Chemistry for Class 12 2. It is divided into 7 chapters as per Term 1 Syllabus 3.
